

The CPSM® Program – Bridge Exam Review

The purchasing and supply management profession has been changing, with much more involvement in most aspects of the supply chain. ISM recognizes these changes in the field demand that the CPSM® reflect the skills necessary for both today and tomorrow.

The CPSM® addresses globalization and expanded competencies that supply management professionals must employ to drive value in their organizations. As the scope of the job has evolved, and technology became key to most supply management activities, there was a need to develop a qualification program to certify those performing these types of jobs.

There are 3 exams required for CPSM® Certification. In addition, for those who currently hold a C.P.M., a Bridge Exam is available to qualify for receipt of the CPSM certification. A review class for the CPSM® Bridge Exam, is being offered by Philip James Inc. on:

April 19th, 2011, at the Radisson Hotel in Corning NY

The course is from 8:00 – 4:30 and participants will receive 7 CEU's. The price is $250.

Participants should have studied the ISM Study Guide material for CPSM® Bridge Exam prior to attending this review session. The Bridge Exam material is clearly marked in each of the 3 CPSM Study Guides. Upon completion of this Review, participants will receive a Participant Guide and Answer Key. These materials are useful as they provide documentation of all questions utilized during the day, along with the answers, explanations and references.

Registration can be completed at www.philipjamescorp.com. Philip James Inc. is certified to conduct all CPSM® review courses by the Institute for Supply Management.
